Ravi & Asha

Two charts, one story

Ravi

Asha

Ravi: 21 November 1988, 5:40 am, New York City
Asha: 2 July 1990, 9:15 pm, Toronto

THE READING

What a Jyotishi would tell you

If an old Jyotishi sat with your two charts, this is what they would tell you first. The bond between you is real: your Moons face each other, his Venus sits on her Moon, and her Jupiter (Guru) blesses his Venus. These are the marks of two people who are drawn to each other and can make each other happy.

They would also tell you, honestly, that this is not an easy match on temperament. Your Gana and Yoni scores are low, Mars links you both ways, and Ravi's Saturn sits on Asha's rising sign. You will need patience, kind words in anger, and a lot of plain talking about what each of you needs.

And they would look at timing. Ravi is in Sade Sati, Saturn's seven-and-a-half-year passage over his Moon, from March 2025 to May 2032, and from 2028 to 2030 the same Saturn also presses on the relationship house counted from Asha's Moon. Those years will test you. Couples who come through a Saturn test together often have the strongest marriages of all, because Saturn rewards commitment, maturity and effort.

WELCOME

Your two charts, side by side

Ravi and Asha, this reading looks at your two charts side by side, the Vedic way. It starts with the traditional match score out of 36, the Ashtakoota or Guna Milan that families in India have used for centuries, and then goes much further: how each of you loves, what you bring out in each other, where you may rub, and how your life chapters meet in 2027.

A score is a starting point, not a verdict. Many happy couples have middling scores, and a high score does not do the work of love for you. What matters is understanding: knowing how the other person is made, and choosing to meet them there.

The mirror between you

Your charts mirror each other in a way astrologers love to see. Ravi, your Moon is in Aries, in your 7th house, the house of partnership. Asha, your Moon is in Libra, which is Ravi's rising sign. Your two Moons sit exactly opposite each other, Aries and Libra, the axis of 'me' and 'we'. In the match score this earns the full 7 points for Bhakoot, the part that looks at how your hearts and fortunes support each other.

You also share two strong planets. Both of you have Venus (Shukra), the planet of love, in its own sign: Ravi's in Libra, on his rising sign, Asha's in Taurus. You both value beauty, loyalty and comfort, and you both know how to make a home feel lovely. And both of you have Mars (Mangal) in Pisces: your energy, desire and way of acting move in the same dreamy, intuitive water. When you work on something together, it can feel effortless.

THE TRADITIONAL SCORE

Your Ashtakoota

23.5 / 36

Guna Milan, from your two Moons: Ashwini and Vishakha

23.5 out of 36. The tradition counts 18 or more as a workable match, and your strongest points are the most important ones: Bhakoot and Nadi, the two heaviest parts, are both full. Your growing area is temperament (Gana and Yoni): how you each like to be loved day to day.

The eight parts of the match score each look at a different side of a partnership. Here is what each one says about the two of you, in plain words.

PART BY PART

The eight kootas

Varna	1 / 1	Spiritual and working temperament. You score the full point: your ways of approaching duty and growth fit well.
Vashya	1 / 2	Natural influence and attraction. One of two points: Ravi's Aries Moon is direct and quick, Asha's Libra Moon seeks harmony. You are drawn to each other, and you learn to meet halfway rather than one leading the other.
Tara	1.5 / 3	Birth-star fortune, counted both ways. One and a half of three: good from one side, more effort from the other. In practice, look after each other's wellbeing and timing, and celebrate the good days on purpose.
Yoni	1 / 4	Physical and instinctive compatibility. One of four: Ravi's birth star is the horse, Asha's is the tiger. The horse loves freedom and movement; the tiger is powerful and independent. Give each other space, and come together with warmth. Affection and touch on ordinary days matter more for you than grand gestures.
Graha Maitri	3 / 5	Friendship between your Moon-sign rulers, Mars and Venus. Three of five, neutral: you can be good friends and good lovers, and your friendship grows when you share interests rather than only feelings.

Gana	1 / 6	Temperament. One of six: Ravi's star is Deva (gentle, idealistic), Asha's is Rakshasa (fierce, independent, protective). This is the area to understand most. Asha may need more directness and independence; Ravi may need more softness and reassurance. Neither is wrong. Say what you need plainly and kindly.
Bhakoot	7 / 7	Emotional and material fortune together. The full seven: your Moons are opposite and complete each other. This is a classic sign of a couple who balance each other.
Nadi	8 / 8	Constitution and family health traditionally. The full eight: your nadis are different, which the tradition considers ideal.

THE EIGHT PARTS, IN DEPTH

What each score means for you

Varna: Ego and spiritual growth (1 of 1)

Varna compares your spiritual and working natures. With the full point, neither of you is likely to feel the other is holding them back in growth or ambition.

Vashya: Attraction and who leads (1 of 2)

Vashya shows natural pull and how influence flows. With one of two points, the attraction is real, and neither of you naturally follows the other. Decisions go best when you share them on purpose.

Tara: Luck and wellbeing together (1.5 of 3)

Tara counts your birth stars both ways. One side is favourable and the other asks for care, so one of you may feel the relationship supports their wellbeing more than the other does. Notice that, and balance it.

Yoni: Intimacy and physical chemistry (1 of 4)

Yoni compares the instinctive animal of each birth star: Ravi the horse, Asha the tiger. With one of four, your physical rhythms differ: the horse is restless and affectionate, the tiger powerful and private. Chemistry grows with trust, time and talking about what each of you likes.

Graha Maitri: Friendship and how your minds meet (3 of 5)

Graha Maitri compares the rulers of your Moon signs, Mars and Venus. Three of five: a neutral friendship that grows when you share interests and plans, not only feelings.

Gana: Temperament and how you argue (1 of 6)

Gana compares temperament: Ravi is Deva (gentle, idealistic), Asha is Rakshasa (fierce, independent, protective). With one of six, this is the area most likely to cause friction: Asha can seem sharp to Ravi, and Ravi can seem soft or naive to Asha. Fights are less about the issue than about tone.

Bhakoot: Love, family and money together (7 of 7)

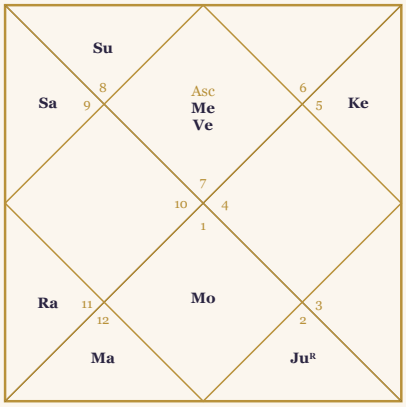

Bhakoot looks at how your Moon signs sit to each other. With the full seven, your hearts complete each other: this is traditionally linked to emotional harmony, prosperity and family happiness.

Nadi: Health and children (traditional) (8 of 8)

Nadi compares your constitutions. With the full eight, your nadis differ, which the tradition sees as ideal for health and for children. This is a traditional reading, not medical advice.

EACH OF YOU

Ravi's love chart

Rising sign and Venus

Libra rising with Venus (Shukra) in its own sign on the rising sign: charm, fairness, good taste, and a life that turns on partnership. Ravi is at his best when he has someone to share things with.

Moon: his heart

Moon in Aries, in Ashwini, in his 7th house. He feels quickly and honestly, and he looks for himself in his partner. He needs a relationship that feels alive.

Mars: his desire and temper

Mars in Pisces in his 6th house: he works hard for the people he loves, but anger tends to go inward until it comes out sideways. He does best when he says early what bothers him.

7th house: what he seeks

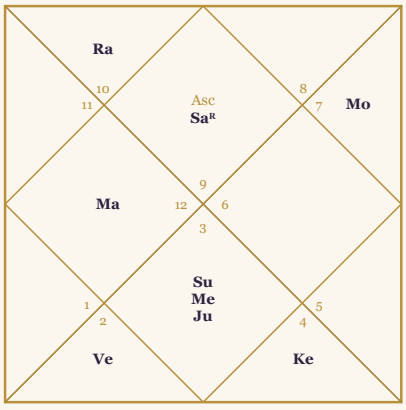

Aries, ruled by Mars, with his Moon in it. He wants a partner with spirit and independence, and may be drawn to strong, direct women.

5th house: romance and children

Aquarius, with Rahu, ruled by Saturn. Romance with a modern, unconventional flavour. Traditionally, Saturn and Rahu here suggest that joys in this area grow with patience and time.

EACH OF YOU

Asha's love chart

Rising sign

Sagittarius rising, with Saturn (Shani) on it: honest, principled, hopeful, and more serious inside than she lets people see.

Moon: her heart

Moon in Libra, in Vishakha, in her 11th house of friendship. She loves through friendship and fairness, and she needs a partner who is also her friend.

Venus: how she loves

Venus in Taurus, its own sign, in the same sign in her navamsa (vargottama): loyal, sensual, steady, and one of the strongest placements in her chart. When she commits, she commits fully.

7th house: what she seeks

Gemini, with her Sun, Mercury and Jupiter (Guru) there. Partnership is central to her life. She wants a partner she can talk to, learn from and laugh with, and she can give a great deal in return.

5th house: romance and children

Aries, empty, ruled by Mars in her 4th house of home. Joy and children are closely tied to home and family for her, and Jupiter in her 7th looks kindly on family life.

IN EACH OTHER'S LIVES

What Ravi brings into Asha's life

Each planet one person carries lands in a part of the other's life. Here is what each of you does in the other's world, house by house.

His Moon in her 5th house of romance and children

Ravi touches the most romantic part of Asha's chart. With him she can feel playful, creative and in love, and traditionally this is a placement that links a partner with children and joy.

His Venus and Mercury in her 11th house of friendship

He feels like her best friend. Life with him can bring her hopes, social life and income forward.

His Saturn on her 1st house

He grounds her, and he can also weigh on her. She may become more serious, more responsible, or less sure of herself around him. When he praises her openly, this becomes a strength: he helps her build a lasting life.

His Mars in her 4th house of home

Energy, renovation and drive at home, and also heat. Arguments are most likely to start at home. A calm, shared space matters more for you than for most couples.

His Rahu in her 3rd house

He pushes her to be bolder, to speak up and try new things. This can be exciting for her and occasionally unsettling.

His Ketu in her 9th house

He may not share her beliefs, faith or way of seeing the world, or may question them. Respect for each other's beliefs avoids a quiet distance growing here.

His Jupiter in her 6th house

He helps her with work, health habits and daily problems. He can be a practical support in hard times.

IN EACH OTHER'S LIVES

What Asha brings into Ravi's life

Her Moon in his 1st house

She feels close to who he is. Ravi may feel more himself with her, and more emotional.

Her Sun, Mercury and Jupiter in his 9th house of fortune

Asha is luck for Ravi. She widens his world, believes in him, and brings wisdom, travel and growth into his life.

Her Venus in his 8th house of intimacy

Deep, private closeness and shared resources. Money and intimacy are both intense themes between you; trust in both is essential.

Her Mars in his 6th house

She pushes him to fight his battles, at work and in health. She can be his strongest ally against problems, and her criticism can sting.

Her Saturn in his 3rd house

She makes him more disciplined and courageous over time. A good influence on effort and skill.

Her Rahu in his 4th house of home

Restlessness at home: the urge to move, renovate, or a home that never feels settled. Plan big home changes together, slowly.

Her Ketu in his 10th house of career

She may seem uninterested in his career or status, or she may help him detach from ambition that does not serve him. Ask for her support explicitly.

HOW YOUR PLANETS TOUCH

What flows easily

Beyond the score, the most revealing part of a Vedic match is how each person's planets land in the other's chart. Here are the strongest contacts between you, the easy ones and the hard ones.

✦ His Venus on her Moon, her Moon on his Venus

The sweetest contact you share. Ravi's Venus sits in Libra, exactly where Asha's Moon is. He makes her feel loved and beautiful; she feels emotionally at home with his affection. This is a classic sign of real attraction.

✦ His Mercury on her Moon

Ravi's Mercury also sits on Asha's Moon. He can talk her through things, and she feels understood when he explains himself.

✦ Her Jupiter blesses his Venus and his Saturn

Asha's Jupiter (Guru) casts its kind aspect on Ravi's Venus and on his Saturn. She brings wisdom, generosity and optimism into his love life and eases his worries.

✦ Her Venus with his Jupiter

Asha's Venus sits in Taurus with Ravi's Jupiter, in his 8th house of intimacy. Deep, generous closeness, and the possibility of building shared wealth.

✦ Her planets in his 9th house of fortune

Asha's Sun, Mercury and Jupiter fall in Ravi's 9th house. She is good fortune for him: a teacher, a believer in him, someone who widens his world.

✦ His Venus and Mercury in her 11th house

Ravi's Venus and Mercury fall in Asha's house of friendship and wishes. He feels like her best friend, and life with him can bring her hopes closer.

HOW YOUR PLANETS TOUCH

Where it takes work

△ His Saturn on her rising sign, facing her Sun

Ravi's Saturn sits on Asha's rising sign and looks straight at her Sun and Jupiter in her 7th house. Saturn brings commitment and staying power, and also weight. Asha may sometimes feel judged, restricted or not quite good enough around Ravi, even when he does not mean it. Ravi: praise out loud. Asha: tell him when you feel weighed down, early.

△ His Mars aspects her Moon

Ravi's Mars casts its sharp 8th-sign aspect on Asha's Moon. In a quarrel, his bluntness can hurt her more deeply than he realises, and the hurt can linger. Ravi: soften your tone when you are angry. Asha: say 'that hurt' rather than going quiet.

△ Her Mars aspects his Venus

The same pattern in reverse: Asha's Mars casts its 8th-sign aspect on Ravi's Venus. When she is angry, his romantic feelings can cool for a while. Passion and friction travel together between you.

△ Mars with Mars

You both have Mars in Pisces. You share drive and energy, which is wonderful for shared projects, and it also means you can compete or both withdraw at the same time. Agree who leads which area of life.

△ His Rahu on her Moon

Ravi's Rahu aspects Asha's Moon. This brings fascination and a magnetic pull, and also restlessness: at times Asha may feel unsure where she stands. Clear, regular reassurance settles it.

△ Her Ketu on his Sun

Asha's Ketu aspects Ravi's Sun. At times she may seem distant or detached to him, and he may feel unseen. Usually she is simply inward. A small sign of attention goes a long way.

Family and children

In the traditional reading, Nadi is full (eight of eight), Asha's 5th house is linked to her home and her Jupiter is strong in her 7th, and Ravi's 5th house, with Saturn and Rahu, suggests patience and time. This describes tendencies in the charts only. It is not a prediction, and for anything about health or fertility please speak to a doctor.

WHEN YOU CLASH

How you fight and make up

How Ravi fights

Ravi's Mars is in Pisces in his 6th house and his Moon is in fiery Aries. He reacts fast, says it bluntly, then often feels it later. If ignored, he goes quiet and resentful. What calms him: being heard quickly, a short break, and then a direct, honest conversation.

How Asha fights

Asha's Moon is in Libra and her Gana is Rakshasa. She avoids conflict until she can't, and then she can be sharp and decisive. She needs fairness above everything. What calms her: space to think, and an apology that names exactly what was unfair.

What sets you off

Tone, timing and home. The Mars contacts both ways mean a small comment can land like a blow. Arguments are most likely at home (his Mars in her 4th house) and when one of you feels unappreciated (his Saturn on her rising sign).

How you make up

Venus is strong in both your charts and links you through her Moon. You come back together through beauty and pleasure: a meal out, music, a walk somewhere lovely, touch. Make the repair before you discuss the problem.

TRUST

Feeling secure

What Ravi needs to feel secure

Closeness he can see: time together, messages, being chosen. With his Moon in his 7th house, distance feels like rejection to him, even when it isn't.

What Asha needs to feel secure

Freedom with friendship: room to be herself, to see friends and think her own thoughts, and a partner who is also her best friend. With her Venus in its own sign in both charts, she is loyal by nature; pressure makes her feel caged, trust makes her stay.

How each of you shows commitment

Ravi shows commitment through presence and protection; Asha through steadiness and loyalty. Learn to read each other's version, so neither of you waits for a sign the other does not naturally give.

HONESTLY

What you may not want to hear

The biggest risk for you two is not lack of love, it is tone. With a low Gana score and Mars contacts both ways, the same disagreement can turn into a hurtful fight or a calm conversation depending on how it starts.

Asha may need more space than Ravi is comfortable with. Ravi may need more reassurance than Asha naturally gives. If neither names this, both can feel unloved while loving each other.

Ravi's Saturn on Asha's rising sign can make her feel she has to earn his approval. Over years, that can wear down her confidence unless he makes his appreciation visible.

Money and home may be a recurring theme: Asha's Rahu falls in Ravi's 4th house of home and her Ketu in his 10th of career, so moves, renovations or career changes may unsettle you more than other couples. Plan big changes together and slowly.

HOW YOU LOVE

Two hearts, two styles

How Ravi loves

With Libra rising and Venus on his rising sign, Ravi is charming, fair-minded and romantic, and partnership is central to his life. His Moon in Aries in the 7th house means he feels most alive with someone beside him, and he can be passionate, quick and honest in love. He may need to learn patience: not every feeling needs to be acted on at once.

How Asha loves

With Sagittarius rising and the Sun, Mercury and Jupiter in her 7th house, Asha brings warmth, wit and generosity to partnership; talking, learning and laughing together matter enormously to her. Her Moon in Libra in the 11th house loves friendship within love, and her Venus in Taurus is loyal, sensual and steady. She needs a partner who is also her friend.

What you bring out in each other

Ravi brings courage and spark; Asha brings perspective, humour and steadiness. Together you can make a home that is beautiful and lively, and a partnership that balances 'me' and 'we'.

Where you may rub

Speed and space. Ravi can move fast and want closeness; Asha can need independence and time to think. The fix is simple and takes practice: name what you need, agree a rhythm, and do not take the other's way as rejection.

A note on Mangal dosha

Traditional matching checks a Mars placement called Mangal dosha. Ravi's Mars is in the 12th house from his Moon, and Asha's Mars is in her 4th house, so both of you carry a mild form. In the tradition, when both partners have it, it is considered balanced. In plain words: you are both passionate, and that passion works best when it is aimed at a shared goal rather than at each other.

WORK AND MONEY

Careers and money together

Ravi at work

Ravi's 10th house of career is Cancer, ruled by the Moon, which sits in his 7th house of partnership. His profession planet (Amatyakaraka) is Mars in his 6th house, and his career chart has Aries rising. He does well in client-facing and people work: sales, hospitality, food, property, design, HR, law or mediation (his Libra rising), healthcare or service roles (Mars in the 6th), and running his own venture (Aries in the D10). He works hardest when he feels needed.

Asha at work

Asha's 10th house is Virgo, ruled by Mercury, which sits with her Sun and Jupiter in her 7th house. Her profession planet (Amatyakaraka) is Saturn, on her rising sign. She is built for consulting, teaching, writing, advisory work, law, education or administration, and her career grows slowly and steadily, becoming strongest from her late thirties. Her Venus in its own sign in her 6th house adds wellbeing, beauty, finance or service work.

Work and money as a couple

Asha's Sun, Mercury and Jupiter fall in Ravi's 9th house of fortune, and Ravi's Venus and Mercury fall in her 11th house of gains: you are good for each other's prospects. A shared venture could work well, with Ravi on the people side and Asha on the advice and planning side. Her Venus sits with his Jupiter in his 8th house of shared resources, so joint savings and investments can grow. Watch two things: Asha's Ketu in Ravi's 10th house can make her seem uninterested in his career, so he should ask for her support openly; and her Rahu in his 4th house can stir up moves or home spending. Agree simple money rules early, and make big financial moves together.

YOUR 2027 TOGETHER

Your chapters meet

In 2027 you are both in Venus sub-periods all year: Ravi in his Moon chapter with Venus (to March 2028), Asha in her Mercury chapter with Venus (to August 2029). Venus is the planet of love, beauty, pleasure and commitment, so this is a warm year for your relationship: a good time for romance, beautifying a home together, celebrating, and making plans.

Ravi's Moon chapter ends in September 2028 and his Mars chapter begins, bringing more drive and ambition. Asha's long Mercury chapter runs to 2040: learning, communication and building. Knowing this helps: Ravi's energy is about to rise, and Asha's steady, curious chapter can give it direction.

Months that favour you as a couple in 2027: April (a full moon in Libra lights Asha's Moon sign and Ravi's rising sign), late October (the new moon in Libra on 29 October), and the summer months when Jupiter moves into Leo, your shared friendship sign (Ravi's 11th house, Asha's 9th). Times to be patient with each other: the eclipse weeks in February and August, and Mercury retrograde from 7 to 28 October in Libra, when misunderstandings are easier than usual.

TIMING

When the stars favour you

Vedic astrology times big life events by two things together: the planetary period each person is running, and the 'double transit', when Jupiter and Saturn both touch the relevant house in the same months. These are periods the tradition favours, not guarantees. Life, choice and circumstance decide.

Commitment, engagement or marriage

Ravi's strongest window for commitment falls between July and October 2027, when he is in his Moon period with Venus, Jupiter (Guru) looks at his 7th house from Leo and Saturn sits in his 7th house in Aries. Asha is in her Mercury period with Venus throughout 2027 and 2028, a period that favours love and commitment, and her own strongest windows fall in January to March 2029 and October 2029 to January 2030. The months that work best for both of you together are July to October 2027 and January 2029. Because Saturn is involved in Ravi's 2027 window, a commitment made then is likely to feel serious and grown-up rather than light; that is a good sign for durability.

Entering the house of children

For children, the tradition looks at the 5th house and Jupiter. Asha's 5th house is activated by her Venus sub-period from July to October 2027 and again in 2028 and early 2029. Ravi's 5th house, with Saturn and Rahu, opens later: his strongest windows are September 2029 and May to September 2030, in his Mars period. Together, late 2029 into 2030 is the period the charts favour most for growing your family. This is a traditional reading of timing, not a medical prediction; please speak to a doctor about health and fertility.

Your testing years, 2028 to 2030

From February 2028 to April 2030 Saturn sits on Ravi's Moon, the heart of his Sade Sati, and in the 7th house counted from Asha's Moon. Both of you may feel more tired, serious or burdened, and the relationship may feel like work. Rahu moves onto Asha's rising sign from June 2028 to January 2030, bringing restlessness and a wish for change in her. These are the years to protect your relationship: lower outside pressures, keep money steady, talk weekly, and do not make permanent decisions in a low month. Things ease for Asha from April 2030, and for Ravi as Saturn finishes his Sade Sati by May 2032.

WHEN THINGS GET HARD

Ten things that protect this relationship

1. Repair first, discuss second: reconnect warmly before you solve anything.
2. Ravi: soften your tone when you are angry. Asha: say 'that hurt' rather than going quiet.
3. Name your needs plainly: Ravi needs closeness he can see, Asha needs space with friendship.
4. Hold a calm 'how are we?' talk once a week, not in the middle of a fight.
5. Praise each other out loud. Saturn on Asha's rising sign makes appreciation essential.
6. Keep home calm: arguments start at home for you two, so agree house rules early.
7. Do something beautiful together every week. Venus heals you both.
8. Choose one shared goal for your Mars energy, so you fight for something, not with each other.
9. Before big changes (a move, a new job, a big purchase), take a month to decide together.
10. In the testing years, February 2028 to April 2030, lower outside pressure and ask for help early.

FOR MARRIED COUPLES

When it feels hard

If you are together (dating, living together or married) and things feel hard

Many couples come to a reading because something hurts. Your charts suggest the usual reasons are not lack of love but temperament (Deva and Rakshasa), sharp words in anger (the Mars contacts), and Saturn's weight: Asha feeling judged, Ravi feeling unappreciated or tired, especially during his Sade Sati.

What the charts suggest helps

Change the tone before you change anything else. Ravi: say the kind thing out loud, every day, and soften your voice when angry. Asha: say 'I need space' or 'that hurt' instead of withdrawing. Both: one calm weekly conversation, one shared pleasure (Venus is strong in both your charts), and one shared goal you work on together, so your Mars energy points outward rather than at each other.

Traditional practices, if they speak to you

Families who follow Jyotish often observe Friday, Venus's day, with something beautiful done together, and Saturday, Saturn's day, with an act of service or charity, to honour Saturn's lessons rather than fight them. These are practices for reflection and intention, not guarantees.

When to seek help

A reading can show patterns; it cannot see everything inside a marriage. A couples counsellor can help you change patterns faster than either of you can alone. And if you ever feel unsafe, please reach out to local support services straight away. Your safety matters more than any chart.

When things tend to ease

Saturn leaves the relationship house from Asha's Moon in April 2030, and Ravi's Sade Sati ends by May 2032. Many couples find that what felt heavy in these years becomes the foundation of something steadier afterwards.

IF YOU ARE APART

The pull between you

If you are apart or separated

We cannot tell you what another person will choose, and nobody honest can. What your charts can show is why the pull between you is so strong, what went wrong, and which periods the tradition favours for honest reconnection.

Why the pull is strong

His Venus sits on her Moon, and his Rahu looks at her Moon too. That combination creates a magnetic, hard-to-forget bond: one of you may find it difficult to let go even after the relationship ends.

What usually breaks it

In your charts, not lack of love but tone, timing and pressure: sharp words (the Mars contacts), Asha feeling judged (his Saturn on her rising sign), and Ravi feeling unchosen when she needs space. If you reconnect, those are the three things that must be different this time.

Periods the tradition favours for reconnecting

Both of you are in Venus sub-periods through 2027 (Ravi to March 2028, Asha to August 2029), which favour love and reconciliation. Jupiter (Guru) moves through Leo from late June to late November 2027, touching his house of friends and her house of fortune: a gentle window for friendly contact. Mercury turns retrograde in Libra, near her Moon and his rising sign, from 7 to 28 October 2027 (moving back into Virgo before it turns direct), a time when old conversations often return. None of these mean someone will come back; they are times when a sincere conversation is more likely to be heard.

When letting go is the kinder path

If reconnecting would mean the same pattern again, or if either of you has been hurt in ways that are not safe, the most loving choice can be to let go. Your own charts have their own good chapters ahead, and healing is a real path too. If you are struggling, please talk to someone you trust or a counsellor.

YOUR QUESTION

You asked, the stars answer

Sample page. In a real reading this page appears only when you add Ask one question (US$15) at checkout. Here is an example of the kind of answer you receive.

> “We keep arguing about money and where to live. Will this settle down between us?”

Ravi and Asha, your charts show exactly where this comes from, and it is not a lack of love. Asha's Rahu falls in Ravi's 4th house of home, which stirs restlessness about where you live: the urge to move, to renovate, or a home that never quite feels settled. Ravi's Mars falls in Asha's 4th house, so home is also where tempers rise fastest. Put together, home is the natural battleground for you two, and money for the home is usually what the argument is really about.

The same charts show that money is one of your strengths as a couple. Asha's Venus sits with Ravi's Jupiter (Guru) in his 8th house of shared resources, and Ravi's Venus and Mercury fall in her 11th house of gains. Joint savings and shared plans can grow well for you, once you agree how they work.

On timing: you are both in Venus sub-periods through 2027, Ravi to March 2028 and Asha to August 2029. Venus favours harmony, so 2027 is the easiest time to sit down and settle the money and home question for good. Jupiter moves through Leo, your shared friendship sign, from late June to late November 2027, a kind window for calm planning. Honestly, the harder years are February 2028 to April 2030, when Saturn (Shani) weighs on Ravi's Moon and on Asha's relationship house. If these questions are still open then, they will feel heavier.

What helps: agree three simple money rules in 2027 (what is shared, what is personal, and how big a purchase needs both of you). Decide on a move or renovation only after a month of thinking it over together, never in the middle of an argument. And keep money talks for a calm weekly slot, not for the moment something goes wrong. This is guidance for reflection, not financial advice.

FOR YOUR FAMILY

The traditional match, in one page

A one-page summary you may choose to share with family, if kundli matching matters to them:

Ashtakoota score 23.5 of 36, above the traditional threshold of 18. Bhakoot (7 of 7) and Nadi (8 of 8), the two heaviest parts, are both full, so there is no Bhakoot dosha and no Nadi dosha. Gana and Yoni are low, which the tradition reads as differences in temperament to be managed with understanding. Both charts carry a mild Mangal dosha, which the tradition considers balanced when both partners have it.

This summary describes the traditional match only. The decision belongs to the two of you.

If your score feels low

If your score feels low: the 36-point score was designed as a first filter, not a final judgement, and many couples with modest scores live long, happy lives. What matters more is which parts are low and how the two charts touch, which is what the rest of this reading explains.

Couples of any gender

For couples of any gender: the traditional score was written for a bride and a groom, and three of its parts (Varna, Vashya and Gana) are scored differently depending on who is which. For couples where those roles do not apply, we score both ways and show you each, and we read the rest of your charts simply as two people.

This sample is written for a couple whose situation we do not know. In your own reading, you tell us where the two of you are now (getting to know each other, dating, committed, engaged, married, apart, or it's complicated) and these sections are written for that.

FOR EACH OTHER

How to support each other

- Ravi: give Asha room to think before she answers, and enjoy her friendship as much as her love.
- Asha: tell Ravi plainly when you need space, so he does not read it as distance.
- Both: plan something beautiful together each season. Venus is strong in both your charts and loves shared pleasure.
- Both: keep a weekly 'how are we?' talk. Your Libra-Aries axis thrives on honest balance.

Six affirmations for the two of you

"We meet each other with patience and warmth."

"Our differences make us whole."

"We say what we need, plainly and kindly."

"Our home is beautiful because we build it together."

"We are lovers and friends."

"We grow stronger every season."

With warmth

Ravi and Asha, your charts show two people who complete each other's opposite: courage and harmony, spark and steadiness. The stars describe the weather of your relationship; how you love each other through it is yours to choose.
