> Your rising sign sits at the very last degree of Aquarius. Had you been born about four minutes later, it would be Pisces. We have used the time you gave us, 6:20 am. If you ever find a more exact time, the houses in this reading could shift by one, so the themes for each month would move along with them.

North Indian chart: your rising sign is the top diamond (house 1); houses run anticlockwise. Small numbers are the signs (1 Aries to 12 Pisces). Vedic (sidereal) zodiac, Lahiri ayanamsa, whole sign houses.

THE SHAPE OF THE YEAR

The story of your 2027

Maya, you were born just after sunrise in London, with Aquarius rising and the Moon in Gemini, in Punarvasu, the nakshatra of return and renewal. Its symbol is a quiver of arrows: whatever is spent can be gathered up and used again. Its deity is Aditi, the boundless mother of the gods, who gives second chances. That is the key to your 2027. This is a year of coming back to what matters, with more wisdom than the first time.

In June, Jupiter (Guru), the great teacher, returns to the exact sign it held when you were born, in your 7th house of partnership. This happens only once every twelve years, and it begins a new twelve-year chapter in your closest relationships: love, marriage, and the people you choose to build with. Whatever kind of partnership you have now, 2027 is the year to decide, consciously, what you want the next twelve years of it to look like.

Saturn (Shani), your chart ruler, spends most of the year in your 2nd house of money, speech and values, and from your Moon it sits in your 10th house of career. Work asks a lot of you, and rewards steady effort. Between June and October Saturn moves into the 11th house from your Moon, classically one of its best positions, which often brings recognition or gains for work done earlier.

Meanwhile you are in the long Mercury (Budha) chapter of your life, which began in 2017 and runs to 2034, and since August 2026 its Rahu sub-period. This is a lively, ambitious, curious time: good for study, writing, selling, building a network, technology and connections abroad. Rahu can also bring restlessness and the feeling that you should be further along. The art of this year is to choose a few goals that are truly yours and give them your full attention.

Five eclipses mark the year's turning points. The most personal falls on 6 February, right on your natal Mars (Mangal) and Saturn (Shani). The great total solar eclipse on 2 August falls in your 6th house of daily work and wellbeing. You will find each one explained in its own section, with how to meet it.

Your reading starts in November 2026, the month you ordered, and runs to December 2027, so the last two months of 2026 are included. They matter: Jupiter (Guru) has already stepped into your 7th house for a first visit, and in December Rahu and Ketu move into the houses they will hold for all of 2027.

THE CHART YOU WERE BORN WITH

Your birth chart, house by house

Before we look at 2027, here is the chart you were born with. Every transit in this reading lands on this foundation, so it is worth knowing well. Your houses are counted from Aquarius rising.

Your rising sign: Aquarius

Aquarius rising gives you an original mind, a strong sense of fairness and a gift for seeing the bigger picture. People may find you friendly but a little hard to read at first. You need freedom to think your own thoughts. Your chart ruler is Saturn (Shani), so life tends to reward you through patience, structure and time: you often grow more confident and more yourself with every decade.

Venus (Shukra) in your 1st house, in Aquarius

For Aquarius rising, Venus is the most helpful planet in the whole chart (a yogakaraka), because it rules both your 4th house of home and happiness and your 9th house of fortune and faith. Having it in your 1st house is a real blessing: charm, grace, an eye for beauty, and a way of drawing good things and kind people to you. Its nakshatra, Dhanishta, is the star of rhythm and music, so creativity and a sense of style come naturally.

Sun (Surya) and Mercury (Budha) in your 2nd house, in Pisces

Your Sun sits in the 2nd house of money, family, food and speech, so your sense of self is tied to what you value and what you build. Mercury beside it forms the Budha-Aditya yoga, a sign of intelligence and a persuasive voice. Mercury is in its weakest sign, Pisces, but Jupiter, the lord of Pisces, sits in a strong angle of your chart, which traditionally cancels the weakness and turns it into strength. In plain words: your thinking is intuitive rather than purely logical, and once you trust that, your words carry unusual depth.

Moon (Chandra) and Ketu in your 5th house, in Gemini

The Moon shows your heart. In Gemini, in your 5th house of creativity, romance, children and learning, it gives a quick, curious, playful emotional nature: you feel things through ideas and conversation. Ketu beside it adds an old-soul quality and strong intuition, and sometimes a feeling of watching your own emotions from a little distance. Writing, teaching, art and anything that lets you play with ideas will always feed you.

Jupiter (Guru) in your 7th house, in Leo

Jupiter, the planet of wisdom and grace, sits in your house of partnership. Traditionally this points to a generous, warm-hearted partner and to growth through relationships, agreements and collaboration. Jupiter rules your 2nd and 11th houses, the money houses, so the right partnerships can also bring material gains. Jupiter here looks back at your 1st house, protecting you. In June 2027 this Jupiter is reborn: see the big movers.

Mars (Mangal) and Saturn (Shani) in your 12th house, in Capricorn

Mars is exalted here, at its strongest, and Saturn is in its own sign. Two powerful planets in the 12th house give you great inner discipline and the ability to work hard behind the scenes, alone, or far from home. The 12th house connects you to other countries, retreat, spirituality, research and the hidden side of life. Mars rules your career house, so meaningful work may involve travel, foreign connections, healing places or quiet, focused projects. The lesson of this placement is to give your energy a purpose, and to rest deeply, because you recharge in solitude.

Rahu in your 11th house, in Sagittarius

Rahu brings hunger and ambition to whichever house it sits in. In the 11th house of friends, networks and gains it is classically one of its best placements: you can build a wide circle, connect with people from many backgrounds, and grow your income over time. Its nakshatra, Mula, is about getting to the root of things, so your ambitions are deepest when they rest on something true.

YOUR LIFE CHAPTERS

Your mahadashas

In Vedic astrology your life unfolds in chapters called mahadashas, each ruled by one planet. The planet in charge colours what the chapter brings, what it teaches, and how it feels. Here are yours.

Jupiter (Guru) birth to February 1998 about age 6	You were born in the Jupiter chapter, the planet of wisdom and grace. Early childhood under Jupiter often brings a sense of being looked after and a love of stories and learning.
Saturn (Shani) February 1998 to February 2017 age 6 to 25	Your growing-up years were ruled by Saturn, your own chart ruler, placed in the 12th house. Saturn chapters often feel serious: responsibility, study, discipline, sometimes loneliness or the sense of having to grow up early. They build the foundation everything else stands on.
Mercury (Budha) February 2017 to February 2034 age 25 to 42	Your current chapter, and the one this reading focuses on. See the next pages.
Ketu February 2034 to February 2041 age 42 to 49	A quieter, inward chapter of letting go and spiritual deepening.
Venus (Shukra) February 2041 to February 2061 age 49 to 69	Your best planet's chapter, twenty years long: traditionally a time of comfort, love, beauty and good fortune.

YOUR CURRENT CHAPTER

Your Mercury chapter

What this chapter is about

Mercury rules your 5th house of creativity, romance and children and your 8th house of deep change and shared resources, and it sits in your 2nd house of money and speech, beside your Sun. So the Mercury chapter asks you to find your voice, to put your intelligence to work, to build something of your own, and to learn how money and values fit together. It is a chapter of learning, of making, of trade and exchange, and of becoming fluent in your own life.

The lessons

Mercury in Pisces teaches that the mind and the heart are not enemies. Your best thinking happens when you let intuition lead and logic follow. Another lesson is focus: Mercury loves variety, and too many open doors can leave you scattered. The 8th house side of this chapter brings at least one deep transformation, often around money, trust or identity, that leaves you wiser and more resilient.

The emotional side

Mercury chapters can be busy in the head. Overthinking, nervous energy and second-guessing are common, especially when you are tired. The remedy is simple and powerful: write things down, talk them through with someone you trust, and give your mind regular rest. With Ketu next to your Moon, you may sometimes feel your emotions from a distance. Let yourself feel them fully; they are wiser than they look.

Love and family

As lord of your 5th house, Mercury brings romance, creativity and, for many, children or a creative 'child' such as a business or a body of work. Communication is the heart of love in this chapter: the relationships that thrive are the ones where you can talk about anything.

Work and money

With Mercury beside your Sun in the 2nd house, this is a chapter for earning through your mind and your voice: writing, teaching, advising, selling, technology, trade. Keep good records and a simple budget. Mercury rewards people who know their numbers.

Rahu within Mercury: August 2026 to February 2029

Inside the Mercury chapter, the Rahu sub-period runs until 24 February 2029. Rahu in your 11th house magnifies ambition, networking and gains, and brings opportunities that arrive suddenly, often through friends, groups, the internet or people abroad. It can also bring restlessness and comparison. Say yes to the doors that match your values; let the others close. Jupiter, who rules Rahu's sign in your chart, returns home in June 2027, so the second half of the year is especially good for the right collaborations.

How to work with this chapter

Write, study, speak, and keep learning. Choose one or two goals and finish them. Protect your sleep and your quiet time, because your mind is your greatest tool. Wednesday is Mercury's day: a good day to begin study, sign agreements or send important messages. Green, the colour of Mercury, can be a gentle reminder to stay curious.

WORK, CAREER AND MONEY

What you are made to do

Your career signature

Mars rules your 10th house of career and is also the planet that signals your profession in the classical Jaimini method (the Amatyakaraka). It is exalted in your 12th house with Saturn, your chart ruler. In your career chart (the Dasamsa, D10), Scorpio rises with the Sun on it. This is the signature of someone who does serious, skilled work, often behind the scenes, abroad or in large institutions, and who becomes very good at it.

Work that suits you

Fields the chart points to: research, investigation and data; technology, engineering or systems work (Mars and Saturn in Capricorn); healthcare, hospitals, wellbeing or care settings (the 12th house); international, remote or foreign-company work; charities and NGOs; psychology; and, through your Mercury chapter, writing, teaching, training and communication. Your 2nd and 11th house ruler Jupiter sits in your 7th, so consulting, freelancing and client work can be very rewarding.

Your work in 2027

Saturn sits in the 10th house from your Moon for most of the year: more responsibility, more pressure and a demanding boss or client, which rewards steady effort. From June to October, Saturn in the 11th from your Moon can bring recognition for earlier work. Mars, your career planet, enters your 10th house on 7 October, and the new moon there on 28 November is the best moment of the year to set career goals for 2028.

HONESTLY

What you may not want to hear

Not everything in 2027 will feel easy. Here is what your chart and the year ask of you, said plainly, with what helps.

△ Work will ask a lot of you

Saturn sits in the 10th house from your Moon for most of the year. Expect pressure at work, a demanding boss or client, or the feeling that you are working hard for little thanks. It is building something, but it will not always feel fair. What helps: steady effort, clear boundaries and not taking criticism personally.

△ You may pull away when you most need people

Your chart ruler Saturn and Mars sit in your 12th house, and Ketu sits with your Moon. Under stress you tend to withdraw, work alone and feel lonely in a crowd, and the February eclipse lands right on these planets. What helps: tell one person what is going on, even briefly, and do not mistake isolation for rest.

△ Money can leak

Saturn in your 2nd house and Rahu in your 12th house of spending: small leaks, impulse buys, travel or helping others can drain savings. What helps: a simple budget, a waiting period before big purchases, and saying no without guilt.

△ The Rahu sub-period brings restlessness and comparison

You may feel behind, compare yourself with others online, or chase opportunities that look shiny but are not right for you. What helps: check each new opportunity against your real values before you say yes.

△ Relationships need patience early in the year

Mars is retrograde in your 7th house from January to April. Old arguments can come back and tempers can run short. What helps: slow conversations, no big relationship decisions in anger, and waiting for Jupiter's return in June before making new commitments.

THE BIG MOVERS

Shani, Guru, Rahu and Ketu

Jupiter (Guru) in your 6th and 7th houses

Jupiter entered Leo, your 7th house, on 31 October 2026, moves back into Cancer, your 6th house, on 24 January 2027, and returns to Leo on 26 June, where it stays until 26 November. In the 6th house, Jupiter helps you build healthier routines and makes work run more smoothly. From late June it lights up your 7th house and returns to the very place it held at your birth. Relationships, agreements and the people you choose to stand beside are blessed with growth and good counsel. Jupiter moves into Virgo, your 8th house, on 26 November, turning your attention to shared resources and deeper inner change as the year closes.

Saturn (Shani) in your 2nd and 3rd houses

Saturn spends most of 2027 in Pisces, your 2nd house of money, speech, family and values. Counted from your Moon, this is your 10th house, the house of career, which traditionally brings more work and more responsibility. Expect your work to ask a lot of you and to reward patience and consistency. From 3 June to 20 October Saturn steps into Aries, your 3rd house, where it strengthens courage, skill and steady effort. Counted from your Moon this is your 11th house, classically one of Saturn's best places for gains, so these months can bring rewards for earlier work. Saturn rewards slow building, careful budgeting and words chosen with care.

Rahu and Ketu in your 12th and 6th houses

Rahu moves into Capricorn, your 12th house, on 5 December 2026 and stays there all through 2027, with Ketu opposite in Cancer, your 6th house. Rahu in the 12th draws you towards rest, retreat, travel abroad and the inner life: dreams, meditation, quiet places. Ketu in the 6th helps you let go of habits and duties that no longer serve you. Look after your sleep, and give yourself real time off, because the year's best ideas may come to you in stillness.

TURNING POINTS

The eclipses of 2027

Eclipses are the year's turning points. They often bring endings and beginnings faster than usual. Traditionally, the days around an eclipse are for rest, reflection, prayer or meditation rather than for launching big new plans. Nothing to fear: think of them as the sky clearing space.

> ### 6 February, 3:56 pm: Annular solar eclipse
> Capricorn 23°, Dhanishta · your 12th house: rest, sleep, retreat, spirituality, letting go and lands far away
>
> Your most personal eclipse of the year. It falls right on your natal Mars (Mangal) and Saturn (Shani) in the 12th house. Something you have been carrying alone, a duty, a fear, an old way of pushing yourself, is ready to be put down. Rest around this date, and notice what you no longer want to carry into the rest of your life.

20 February, 11:12 pm: Penumbral lunar eclipse

Leo 7°, Magha · your 7th house: partnership, marriage, close one-to-one bonds and agreements

A soft lunar eclipse in your house of partnership, near your natal Jupiter. Feelings about a relationship, or about how you show up for others, may come to the surface. Meet them with honesty and kindness.

18 July, 5:02 pm: Penumbral lunar eclipse

Capricorn 1°, Uttara Ashadha · your 12th house: rest, sleep, retreat, spirituality, letting go and lands far away

This eclipse falls on Guru Purnima, the full moon that honours teachers. A beautiful day to thank someone who shaped you, and to let go of an old worry. Rest well.

2 August, 11:05 am: Total solar eclipse

Cancer 15°, Pushya · your 6th house: daily work, routines, wellbeing, service and solving problems

The great eclipse of 2027. In your 6th house, it can change how you work and how you look after yourself. A job, a routine or a habit may come to a natural end, making room for one that suits you better. Keep life simple around this date and look after your energy.

17 August, 8:13 am: Penumbral lunar eclipse

Capricorn 29°, Dhanishta · your 12th house: rest, sleep, retreat, spirituality, letting go and lands far away

The last eclipse of the year, again in your 12th house and close to your Mars. It completes what began in February. Let go, forgive, and give yourself real time off.

How to meet an eclipse

- Keep the day of an eclipse gentle. Rest, eat simply, drink water, and go to bed early.
- Wait a few days before launching anything big: signing, buying, starting. Let the dust settle.
- Write down what you are ready to let go of. Read it again two weeks later.
- Many families light a lamp or candle, pray, chant or meditate during an eclipse. Use the practice that feels right to you.
- Notice your dreams and your first thoughts on waking in the days after. They often carry the message.
- If anything feels heavy, talk to someone you trust. Eclipses stir feelings; you do not have to carry them alone.

> All times are local time for London. Eclipse visibility depends on where you are; the effect in your chart does not.

This month for you

Your reading begins in the month you ordered, so November and December 2026 come free. And November is a gift month. Jupiter (Guru) has just stepped into Leo, your 7th house and the sign it held when you were born, for a first visit until 24 January. Think of it as a preview of your full Jupiter return in June 2027: notice who comes towards you, in love and in work, and who offers good counsel. Mars joins Jupiter in your 7th house on 12 November, so partnerships get lively. The full moon on 24 November in Krittika, Kartika Purnima, lights your 4th house of home: a lovely night to light a lamp at home and give thanks.

In the sky. Jupiter (Guru) entered Leo, your 7th house, on 31 October. Mars (Mangal) joins it there on 12 November. Mercury (Budha), your chapter ruler, turns direct on 13 November in your 9th house, and Venus (Shukra) turns direct on 14 November in your 8th.

Love

Jupiter and Mars together in your 7th house bring warmth and energy to partnership, and more heat too. Say what you want clearly and kindly.

Work and money

With Mercury moving forward again from 13 November, delayed paperwork, study and travel plans start to move. A good month to finish a course or send an application.

Energy and rest

Venus turning direct in your 8th house helps old tension around money or closeness settle. Rest more than usual in the first half of the month.

Use this month to set up the routines that will carry your Mercury chapter goals: a study hour, a weekly money check, a simple health habit. Money and voice are the themes. The new moon in Revati, the nakshatra of your own Mercury, falls in your 2nd house beside your natal Sun and Mercury, which makes it one of the most personal new moons of your year for finances and self-expression. Set a savings goal, price your work fairly, and speak up for what you value. Mars and Jupiter both turn direct this month, so stalled plans move again.

YOUR QUESTION

You asked, the stars answer

Sample page. In a real reading this page appears only when you add Ask one question (US$15) at checkout. Here is an example of the kind of answer you receive.

> “I am single and tired of waiting. Is 2027 the year I meet someone serious?”

Maya, your 7th house of partnership is Leo, and Jupiter (Guru), the most generous planet in astrology, sits there in your birth chart. That is a protective sign for love: the tradition reads it as a partner who is kind, wise and generous, often someone who teaches you something, and a marriage or long partnership that grows you. Its ruler, the Sun, sits in your 2nd house of family and values beside Mercury (Budha), so shared values and family matter more to you in love than looks or excitement.

In the next fourteen months Jupiter visits your 7th house twice: from 31 October 2026 to 24 January 2027, and again from 26 June to 26 November 2027, when it returns to the sign it held at your birth. These are the months to say yes to introductions, events and friends of friends. Jupiter in the 7th house traditionally brings people with good intentions, and a new twelve-year cycle in partnership begins with this return.

Here is the honest part. For a firm commitment, the tradition looks for two things together: Jupiter and Saturn (Shani) both touching the partnership house, and a planetary period that supports marriage. In 2027 Saturn does not touch your 7th house, and your Rahu sub-period is a restless, ambitious time rather than a settling one. So 2027 looks more like a year of meeting and testing than of settling. The period your chart favours most for commitment begins on 24 February 2029, when your Jupiter sub-period starts; Jupiter is the planet that sits in your 7th house. Someone you meet in 2027 may be the person you commit to then.

What helps: from January to April 2027 Mars (Mangal) is retrograde in your 7th house, so go slowly, and do not make big relationship decisions in anger or out of loneliness. With Saturn and Mars in your 12th house you can hold back and wait to be sure; let someone see you before you are certain. These are the periods the tradition favours, not promises. Your choices decide the rest.

With warmth

Maya, 2027 asks you to stand beside the right people, to build steadily and to rest more deeply than you usually allow. None of this is fixed. The sky shows the weather; you choose how to walk in it. Come back to this reading each month, say your affirmation, and notice how the year unfolds.
